GRAMMATICAL REMARKS ON THE INDOSTAN LANGUAGE.

OF NOUNS,

And therein of

CASES, GENDERS AND NUMBERS,

THE Cases of the Noun, in one respect, resemble the French and English; the Variation being made by the Article, not by the Termination of the Word itself, as in Greek and Latin. The Article here is always added after the Word.

E X A M P L E.

	Moors.	French.	English.
Nom.	Audmee,	Homme	a Man.
Gen.	Audmeekau,	D'un Homme,	of a Man.

The particularizing the Gender also bears a Similitude to the English.—In many Words the Feminine is denoted by the Difference of Termination; mination; in others the Masculine and Feminine of the same Species have not the least resemblance.

B

M. { Chukerah, a Boy, } is like { M. a Shepherd.
F. { Chukeree, a Girl, } is like { F. a Shepherdess.

And

M. { Bile, a Bullock, } is like { M. a Dog.
F. { Gorou, a Cow, } is like { F. a Bitch.

Note also, ab denotes Magnitude: ee Diminutive, as Churah, a large Knife.

 Churee, a little Knife.

The Variation of the Numbers is made in the Plural, by adding Loque (People) or sub (all).

E X A M P L E.

Chukerah, a Boy. Chukerah, { Sub, { Loque, } Boys.

Note, Loque only to be used for Personals.

Examples of the foregoing—and first of the Article or Preposition denoting the Case.

Nom.	Audmee,	a Man.
Gen.	Audmee kau,	of a Man.

There are no Articles answering to the French un and le; nor the English a, an, and the. But here the Moors resemble the Greek and Latin.

Ἄνθρωπος	Homo,	a Man.
Οἶκος	Domus;	a House.

OF PRONOUNS SUBSTANTIVE.

Singular.

	Plural.
Nom. Hum, I.	The same with loqte .
Gen. Humkau, of me.	Out of use; see Hummarab , mine.
Dat. Humko, to me.
Accus. Hum, me.	Out of use.
Voc. Caret.
Abla. { Ma, Sa, Ka,	in, with or from me. for,

N. B. See Humarrab and Notes.—So the same of Toom, you. See Tumarrab, yours.

Nom.	Op,	I, or you, or he.
Gen.	Opkau,	of you.
Dat.	Opko,	to you.
Accus.		Caret.
Vocat.
Abla. op { Ma, Sa, Ka,		in you. from you, from me. for you.

Of the above irregular we may observe, that it is a reciprocal, signifying self; hum op is I myself; toom op, you yourself; ooab op, be himself, in the Nomnative; the Genitive is fixed, as is the Dative. In the Ablative Opma, is always in you;

Opfa

Opfa is undeterminate; Opka, for you. The word is much used by polite People; Upna, mine or own; as Tumarrab upna, your own.

Gen. Merau, mine.

Dat. Moojeko, to mine.

Ablat. Mooje, { Ma, } in me.
{ Sa, } from or with me.

The above Words are so irregular that it is impossible to ascertain them in every case.

Singular.

Nom. Ooah, The same with
Gen. Ookau, of { be,

Dat. Oosko, to {

Accus. Ooah, { she,

Voc. Caret, { that.

Abla. Oos { Ma, in { Sa, with or from { Ka, for

Also,

Gen. Oonkau, of him or her.

Dat. Oonko, to him or her.

Abla. { Ma, in { Sa, with or from
 { Ka, for } him or her.

When Ooab is joined to a Substantive, it does not change its Termination in the oblique Cases; and the Article is placed after the Substantive, as Gburr, a House; Ooab Gburr kau, of that House.

House.—So in English we say, that of that. But it is sometimes a Pronoun Substantive; then it changes its Termination, as Qeah, Oaskau, he of him; still preserving its Similitude.

Of PRONOUNS ADJECTIVE.

N. Kone, who or what.	N. Koey, any one.
G. Kiskau, of whom.	G. Kissykau, of any one.
D. Kisko, to what.	D. Kissyko, to any one.
A. Kone, who or which.	A. Koey, any one.
V. Caret.	V. Caret.
A. Kis { Ma, in Sa, with or from } A. Kissy, { Ma, Ka, for }	{ Sa, Ka, }

Say, Kifkan gburr, Whose House? or, The House of whom? But, Kone gburrkau, Of which House? Kone gburrma, In which House? agreeable to the English.

Singular.

Nom. Keah,	what,
Gen. Kaikau,	of what;
Dat. Kaiko,	to what,
Accus. Keah,	what,
Voc. Caret.
Ablat. Kai { Ma, in Sa, with or from } what.	Ka, for

Say,

Say, Keab gburrkau? for, of what House? But if you would ask of what the House is made; say, Kaikau gburr? What House? or, House of what? or, Kaisa banya? With what is it made?

Nom. Eah,	this, or it.
Gen. Iskau,	of this, &c.
Dat. Isko,	to this.
Accus. Eah,	this, or it.
Voc. Caret.
Ablat. Is, { Ma, Sa, with or from } Ka, for	{ in with or from } for Say, Eab gburrkau, of this House; but is kay, of this or it.

To reduce this to a rule, it is only necessary to observe, that when any of these Words are used in an adjective Sense, the Termination is not to be altered in the oblique Cases; which are to be denoted only by the Article added to the Word they are joined to. But when they are used substantively, the Termination alters. The respective Plurals are made by adding sub, all; or loque, for Personals.

Declension of a NOUN with its PRONOUN.

Nom.	Ooah,	kau,	of that	House.
Gen.	Eah,	ghurr ko,	to this
Dat.	Kone,		which
Accus.
Vocat.
Ablat.		{ Ma, in Sa, with, &c. Ka, for Keab is seldom joined to a Substantive, Kone being more generally used for which instead of what.

Of the two PRONOUN ADJECTIVES,

Humarrab, mine; and tumarrab, yours—

These genitive Adjectives are in constant use. Hum kau and tum kau being no more used than of me, or of you.

The Article is always placed after the Substantive they relate to: as,

Humarrah, { Ghurry kau } String of { my } Watch,
Tumarrah, { Rhussy, }

And so of Adjectives in general, as Burrab Serram kau Baut; shameful Talk, or Talk of great Shame.

This

This is considering them as Adjectives. But, Note well, The Idiom continually converts them into Substantives. No Article is ever affixed or added to those Words. In the Example, I have pointed out the Particularity, by giving the grammatical Reading.

Note. Adverbs Wasté, on Account; poss, near, saut, together.

	Toom k e saut jouinga	I will go along with you.

Idiom.

Humarrab poss ow.	Come near mine.
Tumarrah poss jouinga,	I will go near yours.
Tumarrah wasté.	On Account for yours.
Humarrab saut ow.	Come along with mine.
Tumarrah saut jouinga.	I will go along with yours.

Notwithstanding which, say Hum, ko, da, Give to me; Saueb kewasté, on Account for Master; Saueb ko saut jou, go along with Master.

C

In

In the other Cases it seems as if something was understood; as Ong, Body.

Note, The Dative is very predominant; as Hum ko marta, he is beating (to) me.

Kiffy ko balauna, to call to any one.

Ka & Wasté are generally used together, and answer exactly to the Latin, Qua propter.

The Degrees of Comparison seem defective; as Burrab, great; or burrab, more great; bote burrab, very great; oosa burrab, greater than that applicable to two.

N. B. At the Word (when) remark,

When { Kub, } for a Question.

{ Jub, } to particularize a time indefinitely.

Kub toom Calcutta sa Eiah? When did you come from Calcutta.

Jub toom Calcutta sa Eiah? Tub toom burrah saueb kau rukghsud lea? When you came from Calcutta, then did you take the Governor's Leave.

In the second Example observe, though there is a Question it does not relate to (when) at all; and so the same whatever Tense we speak in.

OF V E R B S.

Under the Head of regular Verbs, I shall speak only of such as can be reduced to an uniform Declension and Formation of Tenses.

Of

OF VOICES, MOODS, TENSES, NUMBERS, and PRONOUNS.

There are only two Voices, the Active and Neuter. The only Method of speaking in the passive Sense, is by changing the Nominative Case into the Dative Case, and the Dative into the Nominative: as Active.

Hum kiffy ko marta, I am beating (to) somebody.

Passive.

Koey hum ko marta, Somebody beats (to) me.

The Moods are the Indicative, and Imperative and Infinite: of the Tenses I have ascertained six.

The Present, Preterimperfect, Preterperfect, Preterpluperfect, Future, and Future-perfect.

The Participles two, the Present and Preterit.

Numbers two, Singular and Plural.

Persons three, the Variation being made by the Pronoun-personal, and not by the Termination of the Verb, as in Latin.

Of the Formation of the Tenses—Three of the Tenses are Simple and three Compounded. Two of the Simple Tenses, the present and future. The Infinitive Mood and the Preterit

Par-

Participle are all formed from the Imperative Mood.

The Present,	^{do}	tah, as lou loutah,
Future,	^{do} add	inga, as lou louinga,
Infinitive,	^{do} add	na, as lou louna,
Partic.Pret.	^{do}	ka, as lou louka.

The Preterit is absolute; as lia.

Note, It is usual to add ko (to) after the Infinitive; as louna ko, to fetch. In English it is prefixed.

In some Words the Preterit is deficient, being borrowed from other Words.

Infinitives, Khurna, Kaowna Jouna, Louna,

Preterits, Khea, Khia, Gueea, Lea.

Infinitives, Dana, Murna, Dolna, Phenka;

Preterits, Dea, Murgueea, Doldea, Phenkdea.

Thus in the second Set of Examples, the Preterit is borrowed from Dana and Jouna; and sometimes the Preterimperfect is substituted. Before I speak of the compound Tenses, it will be necessary to know their Auxiliary, Hooab, I am.

Present,	Hooah,	I am,
Preterit,	T'hau,	I was,
Preterpla.
Future,	Hoga,	I will,
Imperative,	Ho,	Be,
Infinitive,	Hona,	To be.

This

This Verb corresponds in its Irregularity with the Greek, Latin, and English, particularly in their Preterits.

Note, Hooab t'bau, is sometimes used as a Preterimperfect.

Of the three compounded Tenses—The Preterimperfect is compounded of the Present of the Verb, and the Preterit of the foregoing Auxiliary; as Loutab t'bau, I was fetching. Hence we may observe, that the Present is rather a Participle, there being in fact no Present answering to the English; I bring, Loutab signifying bringing.

The Preterpluperfect is compounded of the Preterit of the Verb, and the Preterit of the Auxiliary Lia t'bau, I had brought.

The Future-perfect (that is, a future Action represented as past) of the Preterit of the Verb and Future of the Auxiliary, as Lia boga, shall have brought. It may be very useful to point out the particular Use of this Tense, and the Participle-preterit which is very frequent. —

The Participle-preterit is never to be used, except when the two Verbs relate to the same Person. In English we make use of the Preterit and another Verb; as, When you have made the Water hot, bring it. This in Moors literally is, Jub toom ponny kurrum khea bu; instead of which say, say, Ponny kurram kurka lou; having made, &c. The former will be understood; but is not so general.—If the two Verbs relate to the same Person, use the Future-perfect; as, If the Post shall be gone, bring back the Letter: Ugger dauck gueea hoga kbut pbere lou. Thus dauck is the Nominative Case to gueea hoga, and toom to lou.

To give a more striking View of the Formation of such Tenses as will admit of it, I have drawn a Table, whereby their Dependance on their respective Imperatives will appear at once.

Note, Besides the compounded Tenses above, there are some which I mention rather by way of Remark, than to lay them down in a regular Form; as they are used but seldom, and seem uncertain. Jouna boga, compounded of the Infinitive of the Verb, and Future of the Auxiliary, is a more absolute Future; literally, will be to go; though used for jouinga. Marta boga, is more an absolute Present, compounded of the Present and Future of the Auxiliary; literally, will be, or must be, beating. It signifies, that the Transaction is doing somewhere, not in the Presence of the Person speaking. It a little inclines to a Conjecture; Aubee koey oofko marta boga; somebody must be beating him now. Besides the Words in the Table, and many more, there are several of which, though they do not quite answer, yet do almost—as kurrab, make kurtab; jou go, jottab, not joutab.

and

The Subjunctive Mood is made with jab, when; the Optative, with khousy, glad; and the Potential with sekna to, may or can.

E X A M P L E S.

Subjunctive.

Jub bum Calcutta ja biab, tub bum barum t'bau.

When I came from Calcutta, then I was sick.

Optative.

Ugger bum autchau naukree pouna setta bum barab khousy biab.

If I can get good Service I am very glad.

Potential.

Ugger bum jouga seckinga, bumni rebeinga.

If I shall be able to go, I will not stay here. I would go to Calcutta, if I could get good Service.

Hum olburt a Calcutta ma jouinga ugger bum akba naukeree pouna seckinga.

I will certainly, if I shall be able, &c.

The irregularity of the above Words consists in the Preterit and Preterpluperfect, and in the Future-perfect, which is omitted. Elsewhere it has been observed, that it is usual to add ko (to) after the Infinitive Mood; as in English it is prefixed.

Ko

Ko is used so often, and there are two Words that sound so like it, that if a Distinction is not made, it will occasion many Errors.

Ko, kow, kauow; the first is the Preposition governing the Dative Case; also added to the Infinitive Mood, as before mentioned. The second is the Imperative of Khyena, to tell. The third is the Imperative of Kauwaz, to eat. The two first often come together, which occasions the Difficulty; as, Ouna, ko kow, tell to come.

The Preterperfects of Kurna, kbyana, kauppa, are khea, kbia, kauia.

The Preterit Particles, Kurka, kowka, kauka; all which, for want of a nice Distinction, make great Confusion to a Learner.
